This week's issue included the Centennial Edition - celebrating 100 years of the Wauneta Breeze. The 40-page edition took nearly two years of preparation. The first issue was published by John Hann on Jan. 17, 1887.

One avid reader of the Wauneta Breeze was Edna Maxfield who continued to read the Breeze at the age of 99 years. She recalled the many changes that have occurred in her life time - her early years, school years, growing up, marrying and raising three children, Ray, Emma Jean and Dorthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Wine spent the weekend in Norfolk where Lois attended a young children education conference. While there they visited with Sue McConnell, Kelly and Tim, former Wauneta residents.

Jesse West, son of Frank and Angie West, was baptized at Redeemer Lutheran Church Sunday. A dinner was hosted in his honor at the Lavon Haarberg home. Guests beside Lavon, Sharon, Chelsea and Benji were Tracy Haarberg, Frank and Angie West, Jesse and Casey, Mrs. Garth West and Montana and Theone Draper.

Patty Kitt, Casey and Carrie of Schyler spent the weekend with Beryl and Knotty Knotwell. The ladies and Carol Muths attended a bazaar and soup and pie supper at Elsie where Colleen Goings was helping.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sandman were weekend guests of Greg and Sandy Sandman in Denver and attended an exhibit on Ramses II on Saturday.
